Make a Splash this Summer with these Recycling Tips

To celebrate the Summer Solstice, we're bringing back a few popular tips on how to recycle everyday summer necessities and quizzing you on your recycling knowledge!

Tuesday Plastic Trivia

How many plastic recycling codes are there? (See answer below)

Enjoy Summer with these Recycling Tips

Sunscreen.
It is extremely important to protect your skin from the warm, strong sun while outside in the summer months. Before you buy, if the sunscreen is in a plastic bottle, check the recycling # on the bottom. If the number is either 1 or 2 then the sunscreen is readily recyclable. For additional recycling options visit http://earth911.com/.

Flip Flops.
These summer staples get a good amount of wear and tear during the summer. If your flip flops have seen better days start a collection and send them to our friends at Terracycle, who will take that old rubber and up-cycle it into new products. This is a great collection for schools, especially environmental clubs! Sign up today.

Life Vests.
While personal flotation devices (PFD’s) are important and much needed safety precautions, they are not easily recycled. However, vests that are no longer of use can be donated to COA for our Stand Up Paddleboard event the Shore Paddle, a local boat club or parks system, or the Boat U.S. Foundation. To find a site near you click here and search your zip code.

Tuesday Plastic Trivia Answer

How many plastic recycling codes are there?

*The lower the #, the easier to recycle.

There are seven different types of recycling codes:

Abandoned flip flops found recently during a Corporate Beach Sweeps.
#1 polyethylene terephthalate (PETE)
#2 high density polyethylene (HDPE)
#3 polyvinyl chloride (PVC)
#4 low density polyethylene (LDPE)
#5 polypropylene (PP)
#6 polystyrene (PS)
#7 other

To locate the recycling code look at the bottom of the container, bag or on the underside of the plastic lid.
